THE KEMMLER CASE Argument Had Before the Federal Suprem Court

Washington, May 21.—The application for a writ of error in the case of Kemmler, under sentence of death by electricity, was heard in the supreme court of the United States today. Roger M. Sherman, counsel for Kemmler, who made the application, appeared for the condemned murderer. He based his argument on the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution which provides that "No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law," and on the eighth amendment which provides that "cruel and unusual punishment shall not be inflicted."

Every seat in the court room was filled. Every seat in the court room was filled, but there was no crowding, such as prevailed yesterday when the case was to have been heard. Ex-Attorney General Garland, ex-Secretary Boyand, several senators and representatives, and Attorney General Tabor, of the state of New York, were within the bar of the court.

Mr. Sherman explained the circumstances under which the writ of error was brought. "We assume." he said, with en-brought. "We assume," he said, with en-tire confidence that the determination of questions which the decision of this court have left open will not be reached in this cturn to the writ and in due course

Air, Sherman contended that the inflic-tion of death by electricity was cruel and unusual, and therefore without due pro-cess of law. He held that the question what, in the state of New York, is a cruel and unusual punishment for the crime of murder is of federal osgmizance under the fourteenth amendment, although it in-volves the construction of the state consti-tution and the supreme court of ion and the supreme court of scale on it. Mr. Sherman also d that the warden of the intentiary at Auburn was given too great semitentiary at Anburn was given too great a liseration by law. It conferred upon him power which had heretofore been solely omided to the court. He contended that he effect of the fourteenth amendment us to fix the law as it was in 18% and to robibit any change by the states, which has then unusual, because cruel, or which cas then unusual, because cruel, or which cas not of the nature of mere remedial and administrative process. The provisions of the New York statute for soli- any confinement, for concealment of the was not of the nature of mere remedial and administrative proasss. The provisions of the New York statute for solitary confinement, for concealment of the day of death from the prisoner, leaving its determination to the warden, he claimed, were not to be sustained by the common law, but were in violation of the fourteenth amendment. In discussing the question as the comparative humanity of the electric current and the rope, Mr. Sherman held that the electrical law gave the warden no discretion in the matter of the application of the electric current. He was obliged to continue the current until the criminal was dead. The *arden might use the current for a week if necessary, until killed. It had been shown that not electricity, but a sories of nervons shocks was to cause death.

Me Sherman gave a number of instantary contracts the solid property of the fairness in the parents in Kansas.

Mr. Sherman gave a number of instances of the infliction of death by eactricity to show that a man would not be instantly killed by the application provided for under the New York law. He believed that if a current of electricity were continuously applied to Kemmier it would be diffused over his surface. The result would undoubtedly be to an extent, the criminal would become part of the circuit and that his skull and skin would lend a resistance to the current. A man's resistance was greater than 55,100 obust. It might easily be 100,000 cluns. Kenmler would simply be totured if the current contemplated were applied. He would ultimately die, but the internation of the surface, or he might be carented on the surface, or he might be carented for the surface, or he might be carented for the surface, or he might be carented for the surface, or he might be carented to have a mun play a hose on the sponges during the passage of the current. How was this to be done? It was intended to have a mun play a hose on the sponges during the passage of the current. But this was alwardened because during the burning of some electrical works firemen had received shocks while playing water on the fames, the water furnishing the circuit. Now it was intended to have a mun play a hose on the sponges had not been in Utah for some fames, the water furnishing the circuit. Now it was intended to have a word drop in some way on the sponges. He would like to know how it was to be done without danger.

Mr. Sherman, in conclusion, referred to
